ABSTRACT

This is the fourth annual report and summary of information relating to Missouri's postsecondary private career schools for 1991-92. Following part I and part II, foreword and introduction respectively, part III is a directory of schools certified to operate in Missouri. Part IV is a compilation and graphic display of observations from the data collected for schools certified during 1991. This section comprises the bulk of the document and contains a graphic summary in 16 figures of information on certifications, school characteristics, student characteristics, and institutional and student financial data. Also included in this section are an inventory of instructional programs (1991), student preparation information, participation data, completions and employment data, and financial and personnel resources. Appendixes contain an inventory of instructional programs offered by out-of-state academic degree granting schools, an inventory of Missouri private career school programs by school (1992-93), an inventory of Missouri private career school programs by program (1992-93), and classification of instructional programs. FOREWORD

Charles J. McClain
Commissioner of Higher Education

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education has statutory responsibility for the certification of proprietary schools to operate in Missouri. The data in this report, provide important information about this major educational resource for the state.

Among the requirements for schools to be certified is the submission of institutional and student data. These data permit observations about the private career schools, both individually and as a group, including the number of students enrolled; the demographic, educational, and economic characteristics of those students; the types of programs in which the students are enrolled; the number of students graduated; and the success of those graduates in securing employment related to their area of study.

The Directory and Statistical Summary: Proprietary Sector of Missouri Postsecondary Education, 1991-92 is the fourth annual report and summary of information relating to Missouri's private career schools. It is intended that the publication be an informational and planning resource for the schools that submitted the data, for accrediting and professional associations, and for governmental bodies and agencies.

The comprehensiveness of Missouri's data for postsecondary proprietary education continues to be forward looking and provides a resource for observation and planning not generally available in other states. The assistance of private career school officials, without whose efforts and cooperation this resource would not be possible, is greatly appreciated.

INTRODUCTION

Extensive institutional and student data are collected from the private career schools which are certified to operate under the provisions of sections 173.600 through 173.618 of the Missouri statutes. These data are processed and maintained as a planning and decision making resource both for the schools and sector submitting the data and for the Coordinating Board. They permit observation of the characteristics, scope, and economic impact of the proprietary sector and the identification of trends over a period of time.

This Directory and Statistical Summary: Proprietary Sector of Missouri Postsecondary Education is the fourth annual publication derived from those data collection efforts. It is a two part volume. The first part is a directory of schools certified to operate as of the date of publication. The second is a compilation and graphic display of observations from the data collected for schools certified during 1991. While many of the schools in the directory can also be found in the data displays, there are schools in the data universe which will not be found in the directory and vice versa. The proprietary sector is somewhat more heterogenous and fluid than other sectors of postsecondary education and its configuration is in a continual process of evolution and change.

There are three separate school listings in the directory section: private career schools certified to operate instructional facilities in Missouri; non-Missouri private career schools certified only to recruit students in Missouri; and non-Missouri regionally accredited colleges and universities which are certified to offer instruction in Missouri. As of October 1992, a total of 131 schools in these three categories were certified to operate. These consisted of 95 Missouri private career schools, 20 non-Missouri private career schools certified only to recruit students in the state, and 16 non-Missouri regionally accredited institutions. The total number of schools has decreased from 163 in 1988, the majority of the decrease being in the universe of Missouri based private career schools. That decrease has been from 123 in 1988 to the October 1992 figure of 95. The decrease is related to continuing actions by the federal government to adopt more restrictive regulations for institutional eligibility for federal student financial aid program, upon which many proprietary schools are heavily dependent, and increasing competition from other sectors of postsecondary education. Further evidence of this relationship is that, while the number of schools accredited by a recognized accrediting association, a requirement for financial aid eligibility, continued to decline, the number of unaccredited schools has stabilized or perhaps begun to increase.

The data reported in the statistical summary portion of this publication are for the 101 Missouri based private career schools certified in 1991. While data are extensively displayed by individual school, the observations made in this publication, both in this narrative and in the graphical displays, are limited to the proprietary sector in Missouri as a whole. During 1991, these schools enrolled 21,077 students in 434 instructional programs of a widely varied nature. As the graphical display section indicates, the great bulk of students were enrolled in business and technical/mechanical types of programs, with precision technology and allied health also being significant concentrations of enrollment. These 101 schools expended $69,121,813 into the state's economy, employed 1,944 persons with a payroll of $29,119,954. In addition, they awarded $61,206,273 in student financial aid and graduated 18,328 students into the employment market. These figures, as illustrated in the statistical review, represent not only a decline in the number of schools but also a shift in the type of schools which comprise the sector. However, the private career school universe clearly remains a sizeable segment of postsecondary education in Missouri which continues to command public interest.

The integrity of this directory and statistical summary is sensitive to the data submitted by individual school and to the processes of recording and display of those data within the Department of Higher Education. The utmost care has been exerted to maximize its integrity, however, total attainment of that goal is still being pursued. Inquiries regarding the contents of this Directory and Statistical Summary should be directed to Leroy Wade, Coordinating Board for Higher Education, 101 Adams Street, Jefferson City, Missouri, 65101; (314) 751-2361.
